What drove fund performance during the past six months?

- U.S. equities moved higher over the 6-month period ended December 31, 2024.
- The U.S. election results, inflation, and the direction of interest rates were key influences on the markets during the period.
- Small cap growth stocks delivered a respectable 10% return over the period.
- The investment strategy's emphasis on durability proved effective during the period, as the strategy outperformed on six of the seven days on which the index declined 2% or more.
- This contrasted with the market's appetite for larger, high-momentum companies during the period.
- From a sector perspective, stock selection was positive in the consumer staples and energy sectors.
- Conversely, an underweight position in the financials sector detracted from relative performance, as the financials sector was the best-performing sector in the index during the period.
- In addition, negative stock selection in the consumer discretionary sector detracted from relative returns.
